

Train to Become an English Teacher in Partnership with Wollaston School

We are recruiting now for 2016-17

Wollaston Secondary School is currently offering enthusiastic and motivated individuals the opportunity to train to become a secondary (ages 11-18) English teacher via the School Direct training programme in 2016-17. We are working in alliance with the University of Northampton and Wollaston Primary to offer this route into teaching.

How do I apply?

Wollaston Secondary School works in alliance with Wollaston Primary in order to offer places on our School Direct programme. We are offering training to become a secondary school English teacher however in order to apply you must do so through Wollaston Primary. You can do this by following the link to their website below.

<http://www.wollastonprimary.org.uk/>

What is School Direct?

School Direct is a school-led teacher training route, where participating schools recruit and select their own trainees. There is an expectation that trainees will go on to work within the school in which they were trained although there is no absolute guarantee of employment.

Why Choose Wollaston Secondary School?

Wollaston Secondary School is a large comprehensive school in rural Northamptonshire. Wollaston School offers the opportunity to work in a professional and supportive environment and we are lucky to have a student body that works with staff in order to secure excellent outcomes. The English faculty at Wollaston are a supportive and friendly faculty who work together closely and we offer good opportunities for career progression. We are proud to deliver year on year results at all Key Stages that are significantly above the National Averages.

Who should I contact for further details?

To find out more about the routes into teaching, please follow the links below. Or, if you have any questions at all, please contact Mr Jonathan Litt, Head of English at Wollaston Secondary School, at j.litt@wollaston-school.net

https://getintoteaching.education.gov.uk/?utm_source=friendlyurl&utm_medium=print&utm_campaign=vftf